Bridgeway Memoirists

Would you like to leave a written account of events in your life for your family? If your answer is yes there is a group of residents who will help you accomplish that goal. By participating in the group called Memoirists, you will learn how to write one or two pages about events that took place in your life. You will learn how to share with future generations of your family stories about your childhood, youth years, and your adult years. Check the Memoirists out. Attend their next meeting and listen to what they have to say.
